JAPANESE BOMBS IN ANOTHER INCIDENT

Intended For Attack On Louza Police Station

JAPANESE RESENT ACTION OF SEAFORTHS

Shanghai, To-day.

An incident which occurred on Garden Bridge, leading to the International Settlement on Saturday night, when the police and Scottish guards held up an automobile in which a Japanese officer, Major Kano, was sitting has incensed the Japanese population to an unusual extent.

According to the Japanese version of the incident, the guards demanded to see the chauffeur's license of the driver of the car. British officers who arrived at the scene gave the driver permission to proceed.

The Chief of the Japanese Army press department, Colonel Hamada, has sent a protest to the commander of the British troops in Shanghai, in which he complained against the discourteous conduct of the police and particularly of the members of the Seaforth Highlanders.

This protest was preceded by another sent to the same address, the subject in this case being the arrest of a Japanese Major on Sunday while he was proceeding along the bank of the Soochow creek.—Trans-Ocean.

CHOLERA STILL UNDER CONTROL

During last week, 41 new cases of cholera were notified to the Medical Department, while 17 deaths from cholera were reported. Of the new cases, 16 were found in Victoria, 15 in Kowloon and nine in Shaukiwan. Two were officially described as imported cases.

Also last week there were 25 fresh victims of typhoid and 12 of meningitis.

The return for the 24 hours ended at midnight shows seven cholera cases, five from Victoria and two from Shaukiwan, and four typhoid cases from Kowloon.

"Special Service" Cache In Sun Sun Hotel

Shanghai, To-day.

The extraordinary situation of the Japanese Military asking the Shanghai Municipal Police to assist in removing bombs belonging to the Special Service Section of the Japanese Army, occurred during the forenoon of August 13th, it was revealed here to-day.

The bombs are understood to have been placed in a room of the Sun Sun Hotel, close to Louza Police Station.

It is also understood that they were intended to be used to bomb the station, when the missiles were simultaneously to be thrown, presumably by Japanese "terrorists" in the crowded streets.

Police, on the night of August 12, visited the residence of Japanese members of the S.S.S., situated in the Sun Sun Hotel, who it may be recalled were responsible for the only "terrorist" incident which occurred last week.

The Japanese, when confronted by police, protested so vehemently that after lengthy negotiations on the spot, it was decided, for diplomatic reasons, to abandon the search.

CLEARED UP

The situation was somewhat cleared up on the arrival of a formal request for the S.M.P. to assist the Japanese Military authorities in removing the grenades.

The bombs, the Japanese explained, had been placed there for the protection of Japanese Army men occupying rooms in the hotel.

The police readily assisted in removing the deadly missiles.—Reuter.

ANKING CHOLERA

Hankow, To-day.

Malaria and cholera epidemics have broken out in Anking, now under Japanese occupation. It is reported that many Japanese have fallen victim to the diseases.—Central News.

JAPANESE RETIRE ACROSS TUMEN RIVER

Tokyo, To-day.

According to a statement by the press department of the War Ministry, all Japanese troops have withdrawn from the fighting zone around Changkufeng.

It is added that these troops are now in Korean territory west of the river of Tumen and that not a single Japanese soldier now remains east of the river.

The withdrawal is declared to be entirely a voluntary act of the Japanese High Command.

Political circles here believe that the Japanese Government desires to put a definite end to incidents at Changkufeng, and to prevent, under all circumstances, further difficulties arising.

No information is available regarding the positions now held by the Soviet troops.—Trans-Ocean.

FAIR GENERALLY

The Royal Observatory reports that the anticyclone remains over the Pacific to the north-east of Japan, and has increased in intensity. The area of low pressure remains over South China, Formosa and the neighbouring seas, the typhoon being situated about 150 miles east of Shanghai moving northwards.

Forecast: — S.W. winds, moderate; fair generally.

A SUMMER DAYTIME DRESS

Isn't this a pretty thing? So youthful and fresh-looking and just enough different from the cotton fashions you've been seeing. This design will do nice things to your figure—with puffed sleeves to widen the shoulders, gathers to fill out your bosom, and skirt panels cut high and cleverly fitted, to make your waistline slim.

Make up this breezy, unusual model in dotted Swiss, dimity, voile or batiste, trim it with lace or with rickrack braid, and you'll be delighted with the way it fits and looks. Although the clever detailing has a dressmaker finish and subtlety this

What The Stars Foretell

(By MARY BLAKE)

If August 16 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9.30 to 11.30 a.m., from 1.30 to 3.30 p.m., and from 6.30 to 8.30 p.m. The danger periods are from 7.30 to 9.30 a.m. from 4.30 to 6.30 p.m., and from 8.30 to 10.30 p.m.

Should you feel mentally or physically exhausted, this day, it will be good judgement to relax even a short time. You will accomplish more with greater efficiency, if fatigue does not impede quick thinking and movement. There is danger that snap judgement will be responsible for much injustice, so do not be hasty in forming conclusions. Seek congenial companionship, this day because the benefits derived from it may be worthwhile. There will be an inclination, prevailing to spend money lavishly with the result that many foolish purchases are likely to be made. In offices and homes it will be wise to take inventories of essential necessities for exigencies may arise, causing embarrassment through the lack of some commonplace article or material. Married and engaged couples, as well as those upon whom Cupid has cast his magic spell, are apt to discover a careless tongue can stir up a world of trouble this day.

If a woman and August 16 is your birthday, you most likely have some lofty aspirations. No one can ever accuse you of being ambitious, for you are probably quite outspoken. You perhaps have the knack of being entertaining in a conversational way, as well as with the pen. You ought to have the ability to handle money wisely. As a teacher, artist, musician, author, saleslady or office executive you may make an outstanding record. Seemingly your matrimonial life will be most delightful.

The child born on August 16, is generally in the early stage of youth, ambitious always ready to do its part to help make things agreeable for others, and is seldom satisfied to play second fiddle in

AFTERNOON DRESS WITH COOL CAPE SLEEVES

If you take a large size, you love this new design with a gathered waistline and straight panels in the skirt, front and back. It has the cool cape sleeves that are most comfortable in midsummer, and most becoming to your arms.

Bodice detailing is getting smarter by the minute, and this design uses it in just the right way to give soft fullness where needed. You'll find that the neckline is exceptionally flattering, and the bow trim brings you the newest of new notes from Paris!

This dress is a lovely style for your new sheer, and will make up beautifully in silk crepe (small patterns are smartest), handkerchief lawn or voile.

either school or social activities.

If a man and August 16 is your natal day, you are apt to be unusually diplomatic. A magnetic personality is, in all likelihood, one of your greatest assets. Your methods of making deductions ought to be exceptionally good. Through some artistic, literary, chemical, financial or mechanical line of endeavour you may win both wealth and fame.

You want to dress to please yourself. That's easy. What isn't so easy is to dress to please other people as well. If you're clever, you can make HIM say of all your clothes . . .

"I Love You In That Dress.."

mine . . . any time we happen to hear it. You want to please him . . . and you want to please yourself, too. A woman has to use guile to get it both ways. This week I spent a lot of time finding out just how.

He likes you looking trim. That's the coat-and-skirt complex.

You know perfectly well you can't get away with a classic suit. It makes you look "bolstered" round the middle.

Have a soft jacket suit. And the skirt can be part of a dress, if you like. If you can work a cut-away front into the bodice and wear a crisp white gilet so much the better. Men have a passion for muslin collars and cuffs.

One black frock is a "must." Men are right about black. It spells simplicity . . . and allure. It is always in fashion. It makes an incomparable background for jewelry, accessories and . . . you.

I asked half-a-dozen men about the kind of frock they liked. One talked about chiffon . . . sheer, clingy stuff. Another liked his black sleek. And six wanted black to be sophisticated. Said little-girl and play-boy effects are grand in cottons and colours, but black should be clever.

With a chic little hat it's a street frock.

With a fur it can go to the cinema or the theatre.

Glamour at night means a picture frock.

It can be one of those Greek-looking pictures with sculptured folds, but more often it is a wide-skirted dress rustling away from a smooth little bodice.

Men love taffeta and chiffon. They are rather afraid of velvet, and can't bear lace because it gets hung up on things.

Satin is voted "all right on some women," especially if it's white.

We think the evening dress in the sketch knows all the answers. I say slipper satin. You may like taffeta. Either way, the dress is one he's going to like.

You can wear it with a heart-shaped neckline or a low bodice square. The waistline is just that inch higher than usual, and gives you a "thin-through" grace.

It would look lovely in burgundy red . . . breath-taking in white.

Wear it with flowers in your hair. Wear it with a miniature bolero to match sometimes. Wear it when you have something special . . . or tiresome . . . to tell him. He'll listen.

It's an old story. You press that old black for the ninth time. Sew a white tucker into it. And get an extra kiss from himself in admiration of your "new" frock.

Men have strange ideas about women's clothes. They like us to look feminine. They hate us to look conspicuous. They admire comic hats on other women, but not on their own wives.

They encourage extravagance over legs and feet. Demand glamour in an evening frock. And are quite sure every woman looks her best in black.

The woman who goes on wearing the hat her man can't stand just doesn't care.

"That's the dress I like to see you in" gets under your skin . . . and

Witty Kitty

The only kind of family tree a lot of people appreciate is one that is beautifully trimmed with hair-looks.

After a lot of talk we got down to the right dress. Silvaine has sketched it in the top right hand corner. I like it . . . and the men liked it, too.

There's nothing in the frock when you look at it. It's a frock you could wear for a year and cut a dash every time you put it on.

I can see it in crepe. They like crepe. It hangs well and flatters any figure.

You can wear this dress with snowy white collar and cuffs and look like a Quaker.

Give it sky pink ruffles and it can dine anywhere.

Chunky gold chain jewellery—necklace and bracelets—put it in the celebration class.

A wide cummerbund of striped silk would make it dashing; a black velvet sash . . . dramatic.

IMPORTANT FOR PREMIER
TO STAY AT NO. 10

London, To-day.

Informed circles are inclined to believe that the Premier who has practically recovered from his nasal catarrh, will not be returning to Scotland immediately, but will await the Foreign Secretary's return to London from Yorkshire this evening or Wednesday. It is declared that Lord Halifax is interrupting his vacation for several important political conferences one of which will probably be with the Turkish naval delegation in which the British Government is more than usually interested, in view of the fact that England has granted an extensive credit to Turkey for armament purposes. Another factor which is believed to have led to Lord Halifax's return, is the anticipation of General Franco's answer to the British questions regarding the foreign volunteers in Spain.—Trans-Ocean.

Dillinger
No. 2 Shot
In Chase

New York.

Two brothers who have given America's Mid-West a bad attack of Dillingeritis during a fortnight's career as front-page bandits, were shot down by police recently in an Illinois cornfield.

Clarence Easton, twenty-seven-year-old ne'er-do-well from the prairies of North Dakota, determined to become another John Dillinger.

He stole enough to buy guns.

Then, with his brother Oswald aged twenty-five, he began robbing banks, holding up motorists.

Police-trooper Ray Dixon, driving through Indiana one night, saw a damaged car. He went over to help — and one of the brothers fired two shots into his stomach.

"KEEP DRIVING"

Another police car drove up. The Eastons held up the two patrolmen in it, got in themselves, and gave the order "Keep driving west."

They released the policemen after eight hours, then kidnapped a farmer and his son, and ordered them to find a hiding place.

The tightening police net forced the brothers to leave the main roads. Near Wilmington, Illinois, they released their prisoners and made off on foot.

Deputy Clinton Craig was searching a cornfield for them when Clarence Easton, carrying a rifle, stepped out from behind a tree.

"GO AHEAD, SHOOT"

"Hands up!" snapped Craig; but Easton, smiling, walked towards him.

"If you don't drop that gun I'll kill you," shouted Craig.

Easton came nearer still, saying: "Go ahead, shoot. There's nothing left for me."

Craig and his patrol fired together. Oswald then ran out of the cornstalks, shooting. Another police volley brought him down, too.

That night Clarence Easton lay like Dillinger did, on a mortuary slab, with his name scribbled on a police label tied to his toe.

Oswald lay wounded in a prison hospital.

HENLEIN
ARTICLE ON SPIRIT OF YOUTH

Berlin, To-day.

"It would go far to bring about a better understanding if Sudeten German Youth in the Czechoslovak State were regarded as the great hope of the present moment," writes Herr Konrad Henlein in an article appearing in the current number of the official organ of Hitler Youth "Wille Und Macht."

He points out the danger to Sudeten German Youth of divided allegiance and insists that it should remain loyal to the German race. "I believe," he goes on to say, "that Sudeten German Youth has done its bit to show much the young generation of all European nations are desirous of conserving peace, namely by maintaining unshakable discipline, comprehensible only by those who have suffered in common with this youth is agony and misery of alien domination."

This youth has made an unique contribution towards the cause of European peace, in that it has declared itself prepared to unite with the youth of other people in quest of a new order of things."

"Sudeten German Youth," declares Herr Konrad Henlein in conclusion, "is fully convinced that the present unity of Sudeten German will never again be disrupted. It has, therefore, set out to build up and not destroy, but unyielding in its flight for its most elementary right and sworn to uphold the National Socialist philosophy.—Trans-Ocean."

LORD LYTTON
GIVES VIEW ON PALESTINE

London, To-day.

The previously announced meeting of the Trenchical Commission investigating the Palestine situation was held in the Dominions office yesterday afternoon under the chairmanship of Sir John Woodhead, the discussion lasting for several hours.

Significance is attached to the fact that the Earl of Lytton attended the meeting, since this is believed in informed circles to indicate that economic questions occupied the foreground, Lord Lytton having been head of various leading industrial enterprises in Palestine during past years.

He is also in a position to lend valuable assistance to the Commission in its work, since he was formerly Governor of Bengal during a time when problems as difficult as those facing Palestine to-day had to be dealt with. He was, moreover, member of the League of Nations' Commission of Investigation, sent to Manchuria in 1932.—Trans-Ocean.

Shanghai, To-day.

New Ship Propeller Invented

Budapest.

A new method of propelling ships—which is claimed to give greater speed for less power—has been demonstrated before a group of experts at Pecs, Hungary.

The device is described as a "spiral cylinder" which is substituted for the ordinary propeller. The inventors are two local men, Peter Kalmar and Janos Dani.

During the demonstration a model fitted with the invention attained an authenticated speed of 216 kilometres an hour (approximately 135 m.p.h.).

The inventors calculate that if the device were used for the Queen Mary she could reach 150 kilometres an hour (approximately 94 m.p.h.) with her present power.

The device has been patented, and already the Germans are showing interest in it. The inventors have been asked to place their model at the disposal of the German authorities for further tests.

BULLETIN ON PREMIER'S NASAL CATARRH

London, To-day.

After the Prime Minister had been examined and treated by Mr. Bedford Russell at Harley Street yesterday morning, the following bulletin was issued, signed by Lord Horder as well as Mr. Bedford Russell: "The Prime Minister has been suffering from severe nasal catarrh. Whilst in Scotland, symptoms of inflammation of the nasal sinuses developed, making a return to London for special treatment advisable. Progress, though necessarily slow, is satisfactory. The Prime Minister's holiday will be resumed immediately the present measures of local treatment can be safely discontinued."—British Wireless.

ARMY CAREER

London, To-day.

The improved conditions of service for Army officers announced recently by Mr. Hore-Bellisha, Secretary for War, will, it is expected, be followed by a considerable increase in the number of competitors for the cadet colleges.

SENSATIONAL TRIAL OF "BIG SHOT" IN NEW YORK POLITICAL WORLD

New York, To-day.

A trial which is expected to be the most sensational in the history of New York courts, and to lead to disclosures with regard to the influence of gangsters on City Judges and Magistrates, opened in the New York Supreme Court yesterday.

Hundreds of police and detectives were stationed in the corridors of the building and the public was not admitted, all space being needed for the press and the 300 people from which the jury was to be chosen.

The defendant, Mr. James J. Hines, Tammany Hall Leader, is charged with bribery and with operating lotteries.

Mr. Hines has for 20 years been a leading figure in New York politics.

He entered the court with a confident air, asserting that he would be acquitted.

The New York District Attorney, Mr. Thomas Dewey, who has been hunting down New York's racketeers for the past year, alleges that the defendant is involved in a "policy racket" or a system of betting on numbers which, it is said, produced some £20,000,000 per year for the dead gangster, "Dutch" Schultz and others.

The indictment against Hines, and alleged fellow-members of Schultz's gang, declares that they are able to determine the winning number in the lottery.

The maximum sentence which may be inflicted on Hines, should all charges be proved, is 25 years' imprisonment.

The "New York Sun" (for years the mouth-piece of the Tammany Hall regime) declares that upon this trial largely depends whether Tammany Hall will survive as a potent political factor in New York politics.—Reuter.

THE SOCIETY OF THE YELLOW PATH EXPOSED

Secret Pro-Japanese Terrorist Organisation

Revelations During Trial Of Alleged Gangster

Shanghai, To-day.

That a pro-Japanese secret terrorist organisation known as the "Society of the Yellow Path" exists in Shanghai and has been responsible for the majority of the bombing incidents and assaults in the French Concession and the International Settlement during the past few days, became known yesterday at the court proceedings for a terrorist arrested during the week-end.

The defendant admitted that he had placed a bomb in front of the building the Chinese travel office on July 12 upon the instructions of his chief and that he was also ordered to bomb the Aurora University in the French Concession on June 29 but did not succeed in this attempt.

The secret organisation, he declared, is directed by two notorious Chinese gangsters who have their headquarters in the New Asia Hotel in the Japanese controlled Hongkew district. The defendant also admitted that he had acted as spy for the organisation for a considerable period of time in the International Settlement.

The bombing of the Chinese travel office was rewarded by the organisation to an extent of 50 dollars for him and his companion he stated. The existence of this secret group has been known to the police of the International Settlement for some time and for this reason they have instituted a strict control and examination of all persons wishing to enter the Settlement from Japanese-controlled territory. —Trans-Ocean.

ANGLO-AMERICAN TRADE PACT

Paris, To-day.

Several French newspapers claim yesterday evening to be in a position to state that the Anglo-American Trade Pact negotiations are about to be concluded.

The adjustment of the English pound to the American dollar is said to be one of the conditions which will have to be fulfilled before an agreement is reached.

It is pointed out here that in January last the pound was worth 5.01 dollars whilst the present rate is down to 4.87½ and a further decline is expected. —Trans-Ocean.

EMIR SAUD

London, To-day.

The Emir Saud Crown Prince of Saudi Arabia, and the Emir Mohammed, are arriving in London to-day on a private visit of about a month's duration. Last year, the two Arab princes spent about two months in England. —British Wireless.

BRITAIN TO CONSULT ARABS

Jerusalem, To-day.

Arabian circles here are inclined to give credence to rumours about the intention of the British Government to communicate the proposals drawn up by the new Palestine commission to the Governments of the Arab countries before proceeding to publish the plan for partition of Palestine as it appears in its final form.

In this way, the plan would be used as the subject of discussion with a view to gaining the consent of those Arabian countries neighbouring Palestine.

It is believed that this matter was taken up with the Egyptian Prime Minister during his recent visit to London and that an attempt is about to be made to obtain the views of the Government of Iraq. It is said that consideration will be given to any supplementary proposals by the Arabian Governments when drawing up the plan in its final form. —Trans-Ocean.

SPECTACULAR ACHIEVEMENT

London, To-day.

The successful double trans-Atlantic flight of the German Lufthansa plane "Condor" has aroused the keenest interest in London.

The papers publish detailed reports by special correspondents, emphasising the remarkable achievement of the plane and the importance of the flight for the future of trans-Atlantic air traffic. —Trans-Ocean.

Mr. Robinson was unable to walk for years, but would not recognise the doctors' verdict. Eventually a famous strong man cured him by physical culture, and he determined his young twin daughters should never suffer as he had. He did all in his power to make them physically perfect, and to-day physical culture experts, artists and photographers declare them Britain's best developed girls. Last year Daisy won a health-and-strength contest and secured the title of "Britain's Perfect Girl," while her sister Rose was fourth in the same contest.

ITALY GIVES GERMAN FREE HAND

Berlin, To-day.

Italy's position as regards the German Czechoslovakia controversy over the Sudeten Germans was analysed by Verginio Gayda, of the "Giornale d'Italia" in an article published yesterday in the official organ of the German Hitler youth, "Wille and Macht."

Emphasising that Germany is working for a logical and just settlement in Europe while Democratic countries hold up the principle of the old and collapsing peace treaty, Gayda declared that Italy possesses complete understanding for the rights of the Sudeten Germans. While emphasising that the problems concern only Czechoslovakia, the Sudeten Germans and Germany directly, he stated that Italy has no reason and certainly no obligation to grant Czechoslovakia any special consideration since she has not fulfilled her duty as a nation. Whatever steps Germany may deem necessary to take in this matter Italy will have no objection to offer, declared the writer. In conclusion he stated that the policy of benevolent neutrality which Italy maintained during the final years of the

THREE BRITISH CASUALTIES IN VALENCIA RAID

Paris, To-day.

Valencia was raided by Nationalist air-squadrons four times between 3.30 a.m. and 4.20 a.m. yesterday, according to despatches reaching from Republican sources.

Each squadron consisted of three machines, which arrived from the direction of Mallorca. Some of the bombs fell in the vicinity of the British ships "Fredavore" and "Hilffern" and the skipper of the "Fredavore" and an international observer on board, likewise an Englishman, are reported to have been wounded.

The wireless operator on the "Hilffern" is said to have been killed.

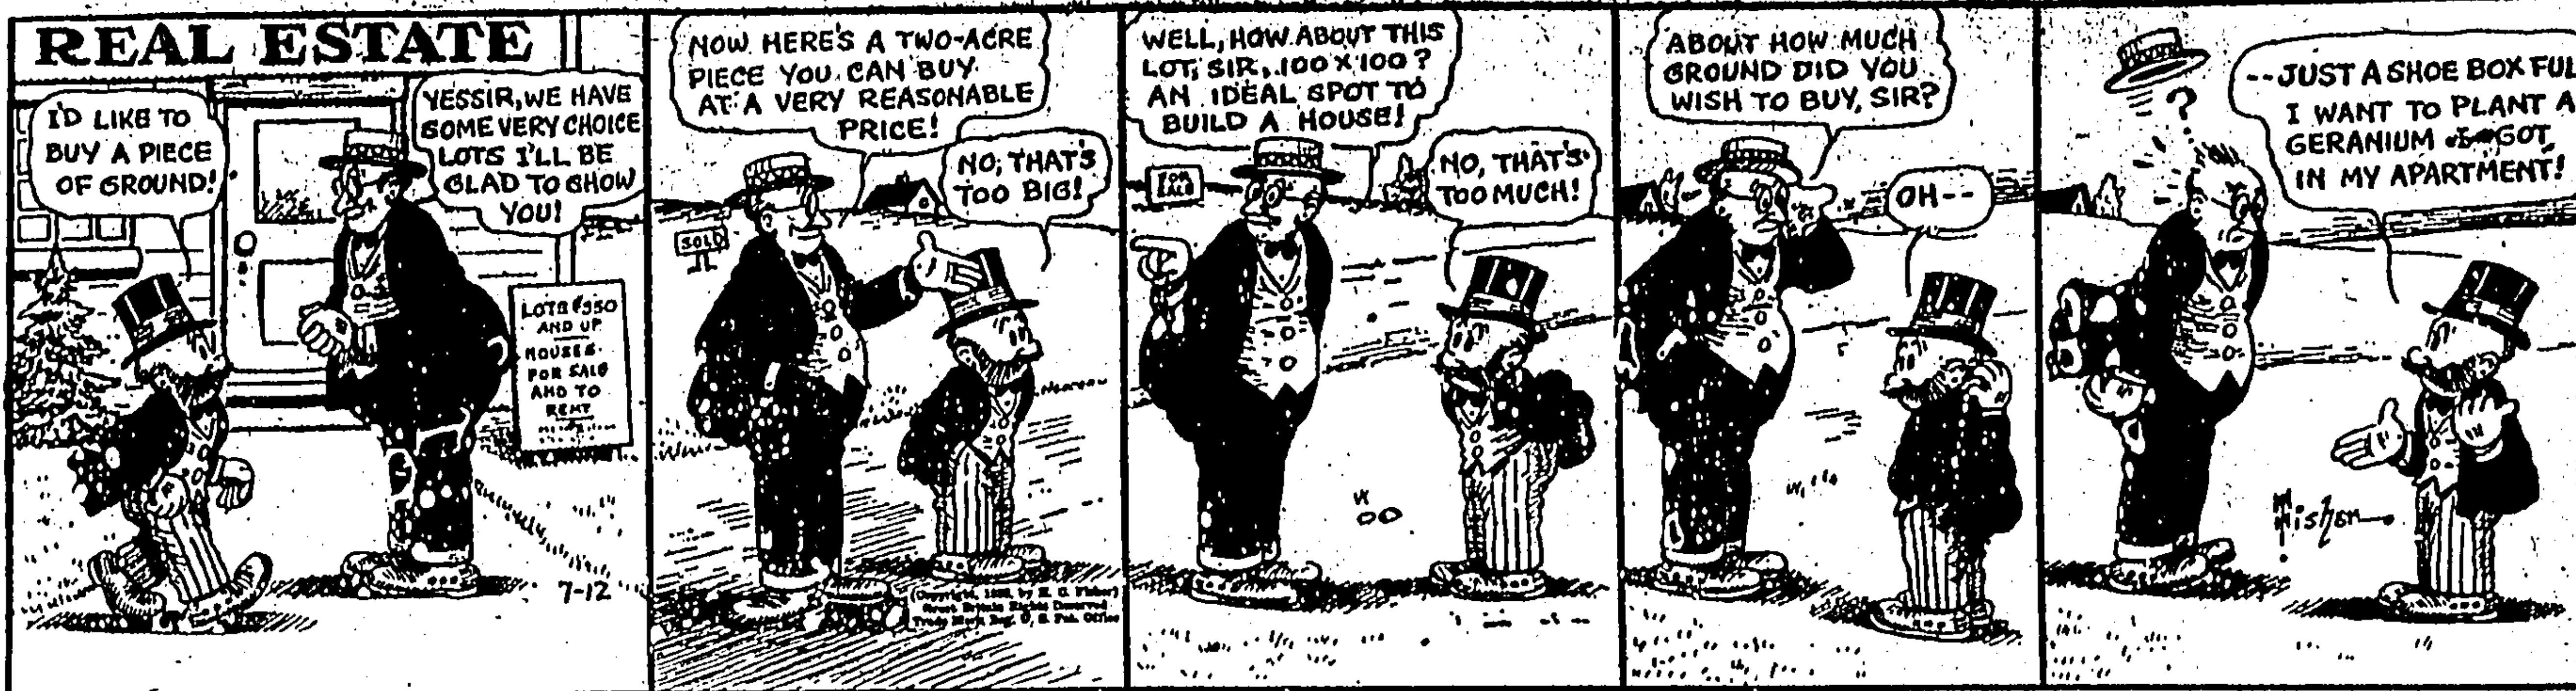

Four houses in Valencia were set on fire by bombs.

The port of Alicante was also raided by Nationalist planes about three o'clock yesterday morning. It is reported that the British freighter, "Noemi Julia", was struck below the waterline by exploding bombs. —Trans-Ocean.

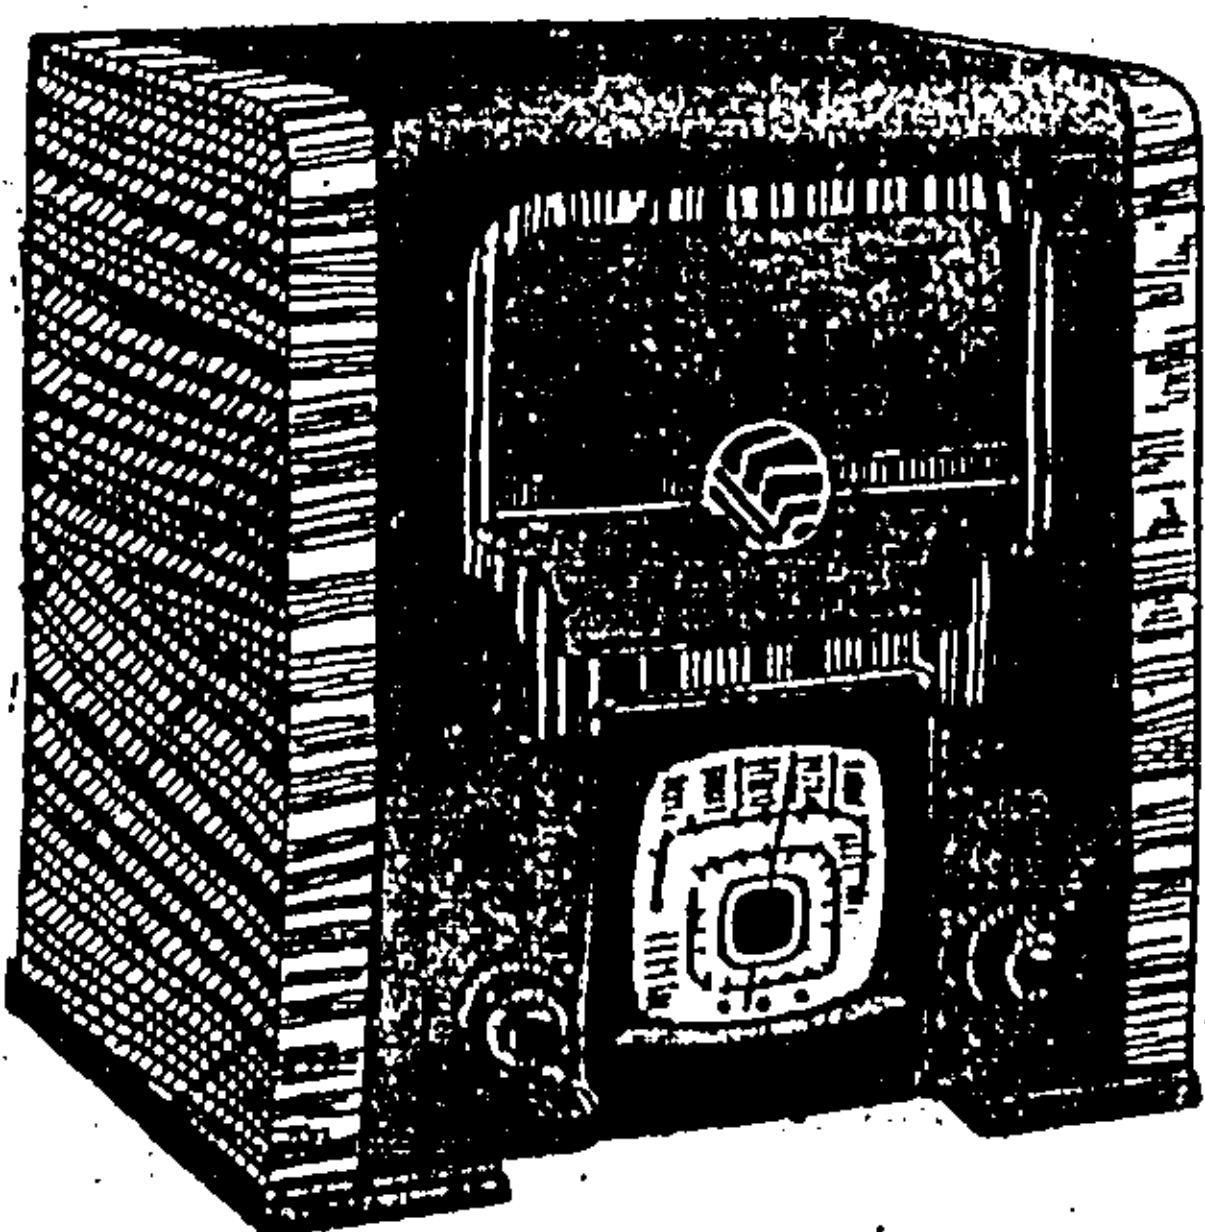

Austro-German controversy will also prevail in the present dispute over the rights of the Sudeten Germans. —Trans-Ocean.

THE DAILY SHORT STORY

AWAKENING

ONE day Mr. Peters woke up. He had been asleep for years. He was exactly 58 years old the day before he woke up. That day it rained. Mr. Peters couldn't mow the lower lot as he planned. He stood in the open doorway of his barn, looking out at the slanting rain and trying to think of something to do. But for the first time that he could remember, everything was done. There were no indoor jobs such as repairing harness or picking over potatoes or splitting wood or blacksmithing or any of the other hundred odd jobs that are ever present on a big farm like the Peters.

It was this realisation that there was actually nothing to do that woke Mr. Peters up. The waking was gradual. He saw, as though for the first time, the well-kept buildings of his farm, the distant acres, the neatly stacked woodpile, the lake shimmering through the trees. He saw his wife as she moved back and forth before the kitchen window. She looked old and tired and worn. Mr. Peters remembered her the day they were married. She was pretty then, young and fresh looking, with a sparkle in her eye. The whole countryside thought she'd made a good catch in Mr. Peters.

Mr. Peters had inherited his great farm from his father. Prosperous then, it was ten times as prosperous now. Two miles of it bordered on a

"It isn't too late," said Mr. Peters, "to enjoy life. Start packing, Aggie."

So Agatha started packing and Mr. Peters arranged to have some one tend his stock and do his mowing and care for his house, and a week later the Peters and his wife set out. They traveled by boat to California. From California they took excursions to all the national parks. They visited the Canadian Rockies and Lake Louise. Then they returned to California and remained two weeks, resting. Then they bought tickets on a liner going to the Orient. They visited Japan and war-torn China. They went into Africa, spending considerable time in Egypt, and later went to Cape Town. Then they traveled over Europe.

They spent money like water. There was nothing they wanted that they didn't have. They indulged every whim and caprice. They enjoyed every minute of it. Toward the end, they had to stop frequently to rest up, because neither was used to such a varied life and their constitutions wouldn't stand this sort of activity.

It was almost a year later that they returned to the farm. Things were pretty much as they had left them. The caretaker had done his work well. It was as if they never went away.

The day after their return, Mr. Peters rose at 4 a.m., donned his overalls and went out to do the milking. He fed the stock, greased and oiled the mowing machine, harnessed the horse, and went in to breakfast.

Agatha had it ready on the table. She bustled around while Mr. Peters, feeling stiff and sore, sat down to eat. After he had finished, he sat at the table for a few minutes, which was not lovely mountain lake and when five his habit. Curiously, he didn't want to years after his marriage, the lake had get up. But he knew he must. He became a summer resort, Mr. Peters mustn't let Agatha know how soft he sold much of his shore property for was.

Some of the money he put into the bank. Some he turned back into his farm. The farm made more money. Mr. Peters was rich. Rich, yet he only had one suit of clothes. He worked seven days a week. He hired no one to help his wife.

This thought came to Mr. Peters as he stood in his barn door watching the rain. He had no children, nor near relatives. The only thing he had was Yankee tradition, which demanded thrift and storing by. Mr. Peters had been thrifty; he had stored by. Now, past middle age, he had a fortune that would be inherited by some vague relation. He had grown old accumulating that fortune. He hadn't had time to pause and enjoy life.

And so to-day, for the first time in years, because he had nothing to do, Mr. Peters thought about these things and made an amazing decision. He went through the shed into the kitchen and told Agatha about his decision. She stared at him. She probably thought he was crazy. But Mr. Peters patiently explained why he had reached his decision. And Agatha, at last convinced, said, tears in her eyes, "Oh, it's what I've dreamed of all my life. What fools we've been!"

He tried to rise, clutched at the table for support, and went crashing to the floor.

Dr. Bronson came softly down the stairs. Agatha was waiting for him in the front room.

"Is—he—is—he—"

She couldn't go on. Dr. Bronson nodded sadly, sympathetically. "It was his heart. The high living he's been indulging in the past year, plus the unusual strain of physical work before breakfast, was too much for him. Poor Tom. I've known him since we were kids. If he hadn't made the mistake of gadding around that way he mighta lived twenty years more."

Through her tears Agatha smiled. "Oh, doctor, it wasn't a mistake! I'm glad we did it. It was just what we needed. You don't know what a comfort it's going to be for me in the years to come—to know that Tom woke up toward the last and really enjoyed himself."

Dr. Bronson was a Yankee like Mr. Peters. He didn't understand what Agatha was driving at. He hadn't had an awakening.

JAPANESE THRUST STOPPED

Chinese Retake Saddle Hill Neas Juiching

Consolidating Position

Hankow, To-day.

The spearhead of the Japanese column advancing on Juichang on the south bank of the Yangtze River, which reached Maanshan (Saddle Hill), north of Juichang, has been hurled back by the Chinese defenders, according to the latest military advices from the front.

The Chinese launched a counter-offensive yesterday and the hill, lying on the route of the Japanese advance to Juichang, is now in complete control of the Chinese, who are strengthening the defence works.

UNUSUAL JAPANESE RAID ON HANKOW

Hankow, To-day.

The Japanese staged an unusual raid on Hankow yesterday afternoon when no bombs were dropped and the only aircraft used were pursuit planes.

About 40 minutes had elapsed after the alarm sounded and the populace believed the Japanese planes were not coming. Suddenly, however, three machines appeared above the Hankow aerodrome, circling around the airfield only, about 2,000 feet above the ground.

Observers thought they were Chinese planes returning to their base.

The machines, however, suddenly power-dived and swept the airfield with heavy machinegun fire.

Chinese A.A. guns and machineguns on the ground below immediately went into action, but the raiders safely gained altitude and disappeared.

SECOND ALARM

At 4.45 p.m. the alarm again sounded, when, according to a Chinese communique, 18 Japanese planes were sighted over Hsiaokang, north of Hankow, en route to this city.

Only eight raiders appeared above Hankow, however, dropping bombs on the Liehkuo Station of the Peiping-Hankow Railway, 22 kilometres north of Hankow. — Reuter.

FIRING AUDIBLE IN TSINGTAO

Tsingtao, To-day.

Chinese guerillas yesterday launched their second attack within the past fortnight on the Japanese garrison at Kiaochow. At 3.00 a.m. this morning, heavy firing could be heard in the vicinity of Tsingtao.

According to belated reports, guerillas attacked the Japanese garrison at Weihaiwei on Friday.

Japanese casualties are stated to have been in the neighbourhood of 300 killed and wounded. — Reuter.

Fighting continues to rage at Pingdingshan, Wangfushan, and Tingchiashan, hills in the vicinity, but the Chinese position has become more steady.

On the north bank of the Yangtze River the Japanese at Huangmei are reported to have withdrawn outside the city in view of the threatening flood. The Chinese have pushed to a point only about five kilometres from the city, and are occupying the high-level ground in the north and west outskirts. — Central News.

TWO WARSHIPS HIT BY CHINESE BOMBERS

Hankow, To-day.

Heavy damage was done to two Japanese warships when a squadron of Chinese planes bombed a concentration of 15 enemy vessels in the Yangtze River below Kiukiang yesterday morning, according to the Military Aviation Headquarters. — Central News.

DRIVE FOR WUHU

Hankow, To-day.

Five Chinese columns are steadily pressing towards Wuhu, important port on the Yangtze River 100 miles above Nanking, in a vigorous counter-offensive.

One column, advancing on Wanchin, south of Wuhu on the Kiangnan Railway, has re-occupied Sihangmiao and Wulitun, points to the southeast of Wanchih.

Another column has recaptured Hsiaohotu, west of Wanchih, thereby cutting the railroad between Wanchih and Wuhu. The recapture of Wanchih is believed to be imminent.

A third column, which has Chuszekang near Wuhu as its objective, has recaptured Machiati.

Tiger Hill, near Sanshanchen, west of Wuhu, has been retaken by the fourth column which is now rapidly closing in on Sanshanchen.

The fifth column is vigorously driving towards Tikang, above Wuhu. — Central News.

EXPLOSION OF DYNAMITE

Kwok Lam, master of a fishing junk, was admitted to the Queen Mary Hospital yesterday suffering from severe injuries to hands, face and chest. A stick of dynamite exploded prematurely while the man was dynamiting fish near Au Chau.

GUERILLAS ACTIVE IN NORTH CHINA

Peiping, To-day.

Guerilla activity has been reported throughout North China during the week-end, including the breaking of the railway in north Shantung, and near Pao-tungfu, where in the fighting of a few days ago, 150 Japanese were killed. — Reuter.

DOOMED BATTALION AFFAIR PROTEST

Hankow, To-day.

Six Chinese public organisations, including the Chinese Chamber of Commerce, in Shanghai have lodged a joint protest with the Shanghai Municipal Council in connection with the maltreatment of members of the "Doomed Battalion" by the Russian Regiment of the Volunteer Corps.

No reply has yet been received from the S.M.C. yesterday afternoon, Mr. Yuan Lu-teng, Chinese Councillor of the S.M.C. and a colleague, called on Mr. C. S. Franklin, Chairman of the Council, and suggested measures for the improvement of the treatment of the "Doomed Battalion."

Meanwhile, it is learned that the "Doomed Battalion" ended their hunger strike upon the persuasion of representatives of the Civic Association, the Chinese Chamber of Commerce and the Chinese Ratepayers' Association, who visited them. — Central News.

RIDING AWAY IN A RICKSHA

Sentence of three months' hard labour was imposed on Ng Sau-tai, 36, by Mr. R. Edwards at the Central Magistracy this morning, for stealing an electric fan from No. 70 Queen's Road Central, first floor.

Det-Sergeant Dowman, prosecuting, said defendant was stopped by a constable, riding in a rickshaw at about 6.50 a.m. yesterday. He was taken into custody and the ownership was traced.

VATICAN VISAS

Paris, To-day.

In connection with the suspension of tourist traffic between France and Italy by reintroduction of visas, the question was raised whether it would be possible for French citizens to visit Vatican city. "Le Journal" learns, however, that the French Government will grant transit visas through Italy for the Vatican city. — Trans-Ocean.

GUERILLAS IN LARGE FORCE IN EAST HOPEI

Peiping, To-day.

The presence of guerillas in bodies as large as 4,000 men, in East Hopei, has caused some anxiety at British-owned Kailan Mines near Chinwangtao. For this reason Japanese have sent reinforcements to that area from Tientsin.

A large section of East Hopei is still in the hands of the guerillas and travellers report that the Kuomintang flag is flying everywhere.

The Provisional Government announces the establishment of its own Directorate-General of Posts, General Wan Kei Min's nephew being appointed Directorate-General in North China for the "purpose of co-ordinating the re-organisation of Postal Administration."

Hitherto, the senior officer appointed by the Chinese Government has been functioning in that capacity. — Reuter.

GUERILLAS INSIDE TSINAN

Peiping, To-day.

It is reliably learned from Tsingtao that a large force of Chinese guerillas fought their way inside the walled city of Tsinan on August 13, desperate fighting continuing in the streets for four hours before the guerillas finally withdrew.

Total casualties are reported to have been 300 persons.

It is added that the British and American residents of Tsinan are safe. — Reuter.

SHOOTING IN JERUSALEM

Jerusalem, To-day.

One Arab was shot dead in the Arabian quarter of Jerusalem yesterday.

His assailants got away undetected.

The famous barbed wire fencing along the border separating Palestine from Lebanon, erected for the purpose of preventing the frontier being crossed by undesirable elements, has now been completed at a cost of $100,000. — Trans-Ocean.

THE WRITING ON THE WALL

It was sagely remarked by a writer not pretending to much profundity that human beings were of two kinds: those who scribbled on walls and those who did not. It is perhaps as logical, if not quite as significant a classification as any other, and certainly less mischievous than most of the current chauvinistic distinctions between people by race, colour, creed or social grade. There is no doubt that to some people a plain undecorated surface offers no temptation to effect its adornment or defacement by inscriptions or drawings; but an ancient deeply-planted impulse (not to employ the much-abused word "instinct") perhaps artistic, possibly merely destructive, seems to be present in others to make marks, to draw pictures or otherwise express themselves on the inviting tabula rasa.

Small children are notoriously wall-scribblers and have to be restrained or, more wisely, given a blackboard and chalks to sublimate their destructive desire. Where the impulse is not effectively controlled it persists in after years and, in spite of opposition and prohibition, the baulked desire sometimes, turned sour, expresses itself in the disagreeable and shocking manner that is characteristic of a good proportion of wall scribbings. "Death to Dictators" or "Down with the Jews" scrawled by adults in a public place are not so much implements for the propagation of ideas as means of the release of suppressed hatreds by wall-scribblers who are own brothers to, and not infrequently identical with, the ill-balanced inscribers of indecent drawings and bawdy writings on the walls of public buildings. But these are special cases which depend on the psyche of the individual and the character of the society in which he finds himself. The normal impulse to scrawl on walls is to-day exactly what it was when Van Riebeeck settled his little band of pioneers on the shores of Table Bay. Perhaps some unrestrained youngster defaced the mud walls of the old Fort that sheltered the first South African Europeans nearly three centuries ago, and the sons of Saxon serfs probably drew designs with the Hampshire chalk on the stone walls of Normandy castles five centuries before that. Indeed, it is not unlikely that the impulse to scribble on walls has been beyond the dawn of history. Neolithic Man gave way to the impulse, and that some, at least, of the cave drawings to be seen to-day are not so much planned and ritualistic measures for increasing by magic the game animals, according to the most approved archaeological theory, but merely the fruits of the natural desire to scribe on walls.

A beautiful example of a schoolboy's scribbings in the ancient world has just come to light in Palestine. Certain clues permit them to be dated precisely 597 B.C., when Nebuchadnezzar's armies attacked and destroyed the royal city of Lachish, the sight of which was discovered a few years ago by the archaeologist, W. F. Starkey, who recently met his death at the hands of marauding Arabs. Lachish was the ancient capital of the Canaanite kings, and besides its frequent mention in the Bible it is referred to in the correspondence, on the clay tablets of Tel Amarna between Egyptian officers and Vassals and Pharaoh Amenophis III about 1300 B.C. Recent excavations by the Wellcome Expedition have unearthed considerable remains of various periods and, particularly, a valuable series of letters written on potsherds immediately before Nebuchadnezzar's second attack on Lachish in 588 B.C. On the face of one of the stone steps of the King's Palace which is now being excavated are crude scribbings interpreted as the doings of a schoolboy. They are described as a rectangle with lines across and the drawing of a lion together with the first five letters of the Phoenician-Hebrew alphabet. The small boy returning from school and attracted by the clear surface of the palace steps unburdens his mind of the figures and letters that have been occupying it, with no conception of the learned men who will solemnly draw historical inferences from his work twenty-five centuries later.

Affected Accents

The B.B.C. voice, it has been discovered, is giving the English accent a bad name. Short-wave broadcast talks have stimulated the interest of the English-speaking world in diction, and many holiday-makers arriving in England for the first time from the Dominions and the United States have been surprised—and relieved to find that the affected tones (the Americans call them "sissy") of some of the B.B.C. radio announcers are by no means characteristic of the race as a whole. Some German students are reported to have insisted on learning the Cockney accent because they liked it so much, but this is likely to remain an exceptional case. The broader accents of Yorkshire and Lancashire, the friendly drawl of Devon and Somerset, and, of course, the beautiful English that is spoken north of the border, these are the tones that attract the majority of newcomers. The fear is often expressed that broadcasting may lead in time to a general uniformity of accent, but just as Cockney children learn to speak good English while in school and relapse into the vernacular immediately they gain the home circle, so the population generally seems able to shake off the B.B.C. influence and stick to its own more forceful ways of speech.

GERMAN MANOEUVRES BEING CLOSELY WATCHED

Aritain Deprecates Many Features Of Operations

Bound To Greate Tension Among Neighbours

London, To-day.

German manoeuvres are being closely watched in London, as well as in Paris, but no alarm exists here any more than in the French capital.

While Germany's right to hold such manoeuvres is not questioned, it is pointed out in London that the present manoeuvres are characterised by special features which are bound to create a state of tension in neighbouring countries.

This is deprecated in the interests of European appeasement, which is the keynote of the British Government's policy.

Certain estimates published by the press regarding the number of men called up for service in Germany, appear to be highly exaggerated.

According to reliable British reports, the total number of Regulars and Reservists combined is well below one million men and these forces are scattered over a variety of areas. — Reuter.

U.S. HAIRDRESSER TO LEAVE FOR ENGLAND

Britain No Longer "Rules The Waves"

Bluff Kenneth Christy, the Pennsylvania hairdresser who has found a way of making a permanent wave really permanent, is bringing his system to England at the end of August.

The system, consists of cutting straight hair to develop and train natural waves.

Mr. Christy arrived in Hollywood recently to sell his system to the film stars.

"I expect that every woman star in Hollywood, and perhaps some of the men, will wear one of my waves as they become familiar with its beauty and advantages," he said.

"At first beauty specialists scoffed at my idea; so I just started a nation-wide campaign to show them that I really had discovered something in my little Pennsylvania shop.

"Now the popularity of my new hair style has exceeded even my wildest dreams."

The man who threatens to make museum pieces of hot irons and the other gadgets of the permanent wave is just completing a tour, during which he has trained beauty specialists to use his system.

He has charged them $70 a time for training, and demands a royalty of 20 per cent. on their incomes from the system.

BEST CUSTOMERS

These specialists — more than 200 of them — are practising in the most exclusive stores and shops.

"They have already served more than 4,000 customers at from $3 to $5 a clip," Mr. Christy explained yesterday.

"Ladies of luxury and leisure are naturally my best customers, but typists, shop-girls, and housewives of moderate means compose the greater number.

"They are not at all abashed at the cost, because it is really a matter of economy to them.

"Accustomed to paying smaller fees for 'perms,' they have taken their courage in their hands and hanged the expense for a wave that really stays put for a lifetime.

"So it reduces their overhead expense in the long run."

Still in the early thirties, Mr. Christy is a hale, hearty fellow with a round boyish face, and a smile that is irresistible.

His own hair is wavy, needless to say; so is his wife's. But you cannot quite tell about his baby boy's, as the child is only six weeks old.

A NICE WAVE

"When something grows there to wave I'll take care of it," said Mr. Christy.

"Many men have taken on to my system. In fact, I operated only on men while I was developing the system back home in Pennsylvania.

"I really discovered it when I shaved a scarp wound on the head of a football player pal of mine.

"I was amazed when I found a perfect wave forming, so I experimented and experimented on every fellow who wanted a nice wave to attract a girl's eye.

"I cannot wait to tell England about my system.

"Right now I am negotiating with several stores and shops there, and as soon as plans are completed, I shall be on my way.

"You can tell England that Britain won't rule the waves any more after I get there."

'MISS X' IS MAN-PROOF

Here's a girl who "prefers a dog to any stuffed shirt." She's twenty-six, single, goes out to business in Liverpool every day.

She claims to be the only member of her sex in the city of nearly a million people to be "man-proof."

A local cinema showing the film "Man-Proof" advertised for a girl who thought she filled the bill.

Only one answered—but she refuses to give her name.

Modestly, she prefers to be known as plain Miss X.

Listen to what she has to say about men:—

"The modern man is a bore and a boor.

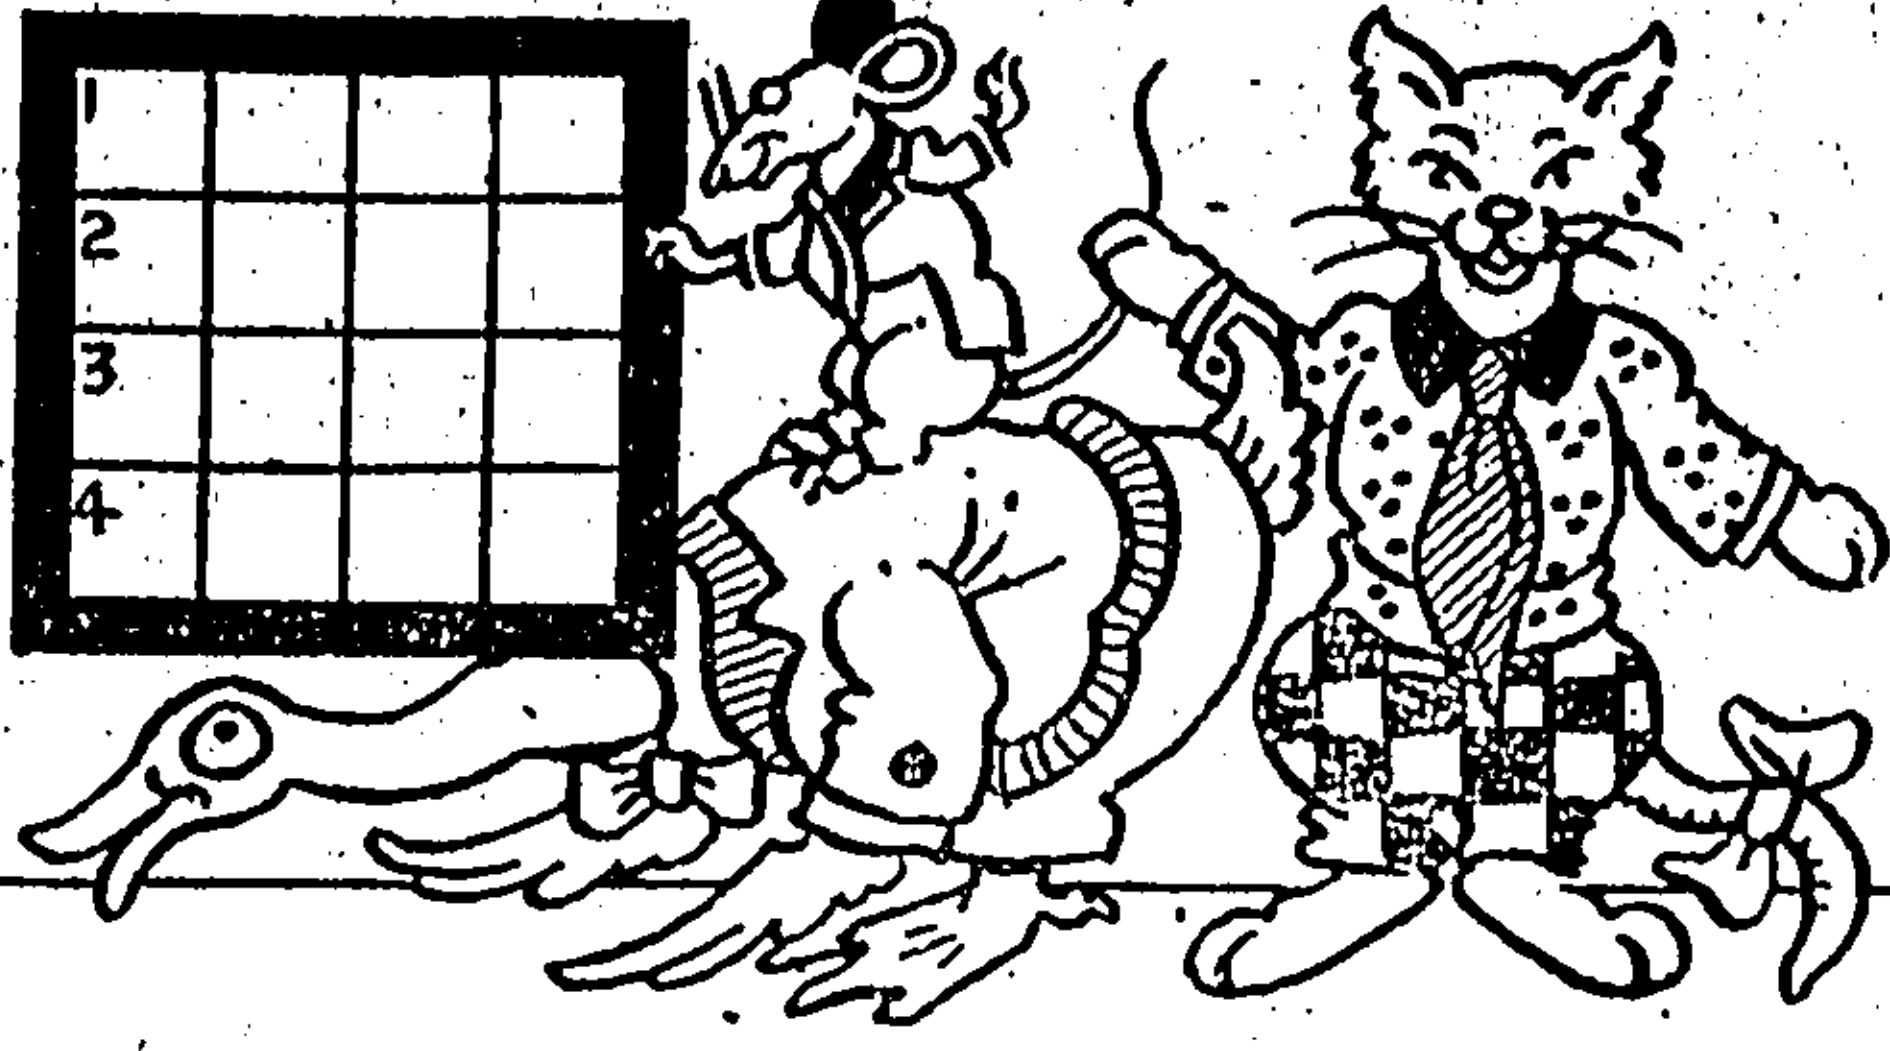

"He is completely without manners and is casual in the extreme.

"Sometimes I have met a man and thought him charming.

"Then the hidden traps in his character come to the surface.

"And Bang Goes Another Illusion."

YORKSHIRE'S BRILLIANT VICTORY

"REVIEWER'S" SPORTS COMMENTARY

Burk's Amazing Sculling

Henley Regatta of 1938 will not be one of those regattas that will linger long in the memory of oarsmen or lovers of rowing, for there were very few outstanding performances. The three best, undoubtedly, were Radley's victory in the Ladies' Plate; the race between London and Jesus College in the semi-final of the Grand Challenge Cup, and J. W. Burk's amazing form in the Diamond Sculls.

Burk's performance may cause a wholesale revision of our sculling ideas. His style was a complete revelation to British scullers, who are taught to swing and scull with a long sweeping stroke. Burk, however, was rigged so far forward that his body never went beyond the perpendicular, so that he had practically no swing, and he propelled his boat along by means of very quick and short strokes. His finish was a powerful one, and it kept his boat running all the time.

There was no "fading out" with Burk this year, for the American went off the mark, sculling at the remarkable rate of forty-four strokes in the first minute, and in the final against Habbitts he never let his rate fall below 40. Such an average has never before been recorded in a sculling race in this country, and naturally Burk won all of his races with the greatest of ease. He established a new record for the course of 8 min. 2 sec., and those figures are likely to stand for years to come, unless Burk returns next year and has ideal conditions again. What he would do if he was pressed can only be surmised, for when he broke the record he actually passed the winning post 51 sec. ahead of Habbitts.

It is difficult to recall a more popular victory at the regatta than that gained by Radley College in the Ladies' Plate. When Radley passed the post over a length ahead of Pembroke College there was a remarkable demonstration.

Radley had been competing in the Ladies' Plate ever since 1861, but this was the first occasion they had won the coveted trophy. They had only been in the final on five previous occasions, in 1866, 1867, 1882, 1884, and 1893, and on the first four occasions there were never more than four crews in the event. This year there were twenty-five, so that Radley's triumph was something they might well be proud of. The crew rowed magnificently throughout their races, and their final spurt along the Enclosure was simply devastating. They gained over a length on both

Lancashire Routed By Verity

SPIN BOWLER TAKES FIVE WICKETS FOR TEN RUNS

(By AIR MAIL)

LONDON, AUGUST 3.

YORKSHIRE'S 14TH CHAMPIONSHIP WIN OF THE SEASON WAS A HOLLOW VICTORY OVER LANCASHIRE, AT OLD TRAFFORD YESTERDAY, BY AN INNINGS AND 200 RUNS. Changed wicket conditions which were primarily responsible for a precipitous collapse did not absolve Lancashire from criticism for a feeble performance.

Heavy rain during the night completely altered the nature of the pitch, and Verity was in his element. He sent back five of the remaining batsmen for 10 runs in 15 overs.

Lancashire faced a hard task, for they began requiring 251 runs to avert defeat by an innings. Apart from Paynter, who scored 58 out of a total of 120, none of the batsmen was able to surmount the handicap of the awkward turf. Paynter, except for five minutes, defied Yorkshire for the whole time the innings lasted—two hours and forty minutes, and he hit half a dozen boundaries.

Altogether the nine wickets yesterday fell for 51 runs in ninety minutes, Paynter getting 30. He was dismissed by a rising ball from Bowes.

Verity turned the ball appreciably from a tantalising length, and proved practically unplayable. His figures for the match were seven wickets for 66.

It was the first occasion since 1909 that either side had succeeded in defeating the other twice in a season. This summer Yorkshire won at Bradford by eight wickets.

Corpus Christi and Pembroke in the last two hundred yards of the course—a great feat for schoolboys.

It is perhaps just as well that Radley have such a fine crew this year, for they are leaving for America in the very near future to repay the visits of Kent School, and they will meet the American school in the United States. The meeting of the winners of the Ladies' Plate and the Thames Cup should be worth going many miles to see. In addition to racing with Kent School, Radley will compete in other school races, so that Americans will have the opportunity of seeing the leading British rowing school of the year.

LEACH & JENKINS SHINE

HOW SHANGHAI DEFEATED C-IN-C'S XI AT WEI-HAI-WEI

Lt. Comdr. Pugh Carries Bat For 98 Runs

Shanghai, August 10.

KNOCKING up 59 with an excellent display of timing, L. F. Stokes led the Shanghai batsmen in their first match against H. M. Navy at Weihai-wei in which 201 runs were scored. Sir Percy Noble's eleven then went in with determination, but thanks to the able bowling of D. W. Leach and J. C. Jenkins, the Royal Navy side was dismissed just nine runs short of Shanghai's total in spite of a brilliant batting performance by Lt.-Cmdr. Pugh who accounted for 98 runs not out.

Brig.-Gen. Macnaghten won the toss and elected to bat. At precisely 12.09 Stokes and Booth opened the innings. The ground, completely devoid of turf, reflected a disturbing glare off the sandy surface. This was perhaps accentuated by the contrast of a deep blue sea and green landscape.

Stokes played the first ball of the match cautiously to mid-off. A single gave Booth the opportunity of facing the bowling which almost resulted in this player being caught in the slips. The score increased steadily with Stokes proving the more aggressive and confident of the two batsmen.

An extremely useful partnership was brought to an end when Booth, attempting a square cut, failed to connect in the middle and was well taken by first slip. Stokes up to this time had been playing in characteristic style, driving past cover and late cutting with extreme confidence. A difficult chance to square leg could hardly have been called a 'life.'

Lucky Leach

Sinclair was then out first ball to a catch in the slips, and Leach who succeeded him was rather fortunate in surviving a catch behind the wicket, Mid. Collins failing to gather. Stokes then reached his half century and Leach raised the total score to 100. Hopes of a century for Stokes were shattered when he was stumped after going out to one from Cmdr. Boucher.

Apart from Stokes none of batsmen, including Leach, who incidentally had another 'life,' appeared set for scoring runs and the innings closed for the comparatively satisfactory total of 202.

The Brigadier General showed glimpses of his former prowess in scoring a captain's innings of 15 carefully calculated runs. "Torry" Wilson was responsible for an excellent six into the sea. First class fielding by Lt. Cotman of the Navy XI was a feature of the innings.

SHANGHAI LEARNS

Perhaps the most valuable lessons gained by Shanghai from their first innings were: 1) that the ball came off the matting wicket very fast and 2) that the ball could be made to turn on the matting sufficiently to prove dangerous. In view of this, playing back to a ball that was approaching good length, required an extraordinarily quick eye and some fast footwork. It was evident later, from the Navy batsmen, that a forward stroke was always preferable, as it eliminated a possible break being effective and more important, the danger of smacking a ball that has gathered speed off the wicket.

After tea, at 4 p.m. Lt. Cmdr. Pugh and Mid. Collins opened the C-in-C's innings. With 208 runs to make and approximately 2½ hours in hand, fast scoring was necessary. "Torry" Wilson opened the attack at the pavilion end, and was promptly hit for four in his first over.

FUTILE ATTEMPTS

Shanghai had its first taste of fielding on the hard sandy surface. The ball when hit, appeared to increase rather than diminish its speed as it neared the boundary (these were comparatively short on two sides) and many futile attempts to gain on the ball were seen.

A change in the bowling drew first blood when Jenkins got past Mid. Collins' guard only to have the ball obstructed. A confident appeal was upheld. Leach, who took over from Wilson and Jenkins, continued to bowl very well indeed, the former claiming most of his victims with a medium fast ball that turned in from the leg.

PUGH PUNISHES BOWLING

Neither bowler, however, could make any impression on Lt. Cmdr. Pugh who was scoring attractively all around the wicket. Batsmen fell at regular intervals with Jenkins being responsible for two valuable wickets in Lt. Cotman and Lt. Cochrane, both of whom will be playing for the Fleet. Following Lt. Cmdr. Steel who was run out as a result of a misunderstanding, the score read 147 for nine wickets.

"Torry" Wilson was forced to retire at this stage of the game owing to a torn fingernail sustained in an abortive attempt to catch a difficult one from Pugh, at long mid-on. It was later learned that the damage inflicted was of a sufficiently serious nature to prevent him from playing in subsequent matches. A stroke of bad luck that "Torry" himself deplores.

DEFIED THE BEST

The C-in-C. then joined Lt. Cmdr. Pugh in what proved to be a last wicket stand that all but won the game for the Navy. Some extremely forceful batting by Lt. Cdr. Pugh who by this time was probably seeing a ball twice the size, ably backed by the C-in-C. who defied the best in Leach and Jenkins, raised the score from 147 to 190.

Amid tense excitement, the Umpires signalled for the last over of the match. The C-in-C. faced Leach and the field was brought well in, to ensure a catch if presented.

DRAMATIC FINISH

The first five balls were carefully played but the sixth and last ball of the over and match decided the issue. A full toss from Leach on the leg side fully justified an attempt for a six. The ball, however, apparently swerved slightly with the result that it glanced off the bat onto the leg stump.

Fifteen-year-old Betty Slade, an Ilford (London) girl, is expected to be well to the fore in the European diving championships which are to be held at Wembley Pool, London. Betty is British national champion, despite her youth, and in 1936 gained 9th place in a field of 19 at the Berlin Olympic Games. She will be meeting many of the Olympic competitors at Wembley, but is so improved that she is a favourite for the European title. Our photograph shows a striking action study of Betty as she jumped from the board during practice at Wembley Pool. (Copyright, Fox, by Air Mail).

Thus ended a splendid match, exemplifying the terrible uncertainties of cricket. Lt. Cdr. Pugh deserved unbounded praise for his glorious, chanceless innings which realised 98 runs, more than half the total Navy score. Detailed scores follow:

A. D. Locke Holes Chip For 'Eagle'

(By AIR MAIL)

London, August 1.

A. D. Locke, 20-year-old South African champion, figured on the winning side in the two series of professional four-ball matches played at Addington Palace, near Croydon, yesterday, in aid of University College Hospital.

Locke, playing brilliantly, was instrumental in saving his side in the first game. Partnered by C. S. Denny (Thorpe Hall), he was 3 down at the twelfth against A. J. Lacey (Berkshire) and Abe Mitchell (Verulam), but Locke holed a chip at the long thirteenth for an "eagle" 3.

Holing long putts at the next three holes, Locke and Denny became 1 up, and eventually won by this margin.

In the second match Locke and A. H. Padgham (Sundridge Park) beat J. Adams (Royal Liverpool) and W. J. Cox (Wimbledon Park) 4 and 3, the winners having the better ball score of 63 to 67.

EXCITING FINISH

The early game between Alfred Perry (Leatherhead) and Adams and Padgham and Cox provided an exciting finish. The first-named pair were 3 down at the 15th, but Perry found his form, and his side, finishing with three successive 3's, halved the match.

Apart from Locke, the only other dual winner was Sam King (Knole Park assistant), who, partnered by E. E. Whitcombe (Porter's Park), defeated D. J. Rees (Surbiton) and M. Daragon (Addington Palace) by 1 hole in the first series. Later King and Lacey beat Perry and Mitchell 2 and 1. Results:—

FIRST SERIES

A. Perry (Leatherhead) and J. Adams (Royal Liverpool) halved with A. H. Padgham (Sundridge Park) and W. J. Cox (Wimbledon Park).

A. D. Locke (South Africa) and C. S. Denny (Thorpe Hall) beat A. J. Lacey (Berkshire) and A. Mitchell (Verulam), 1 hole.

S. L. King (Knole Park) and E. E. Whitcombe (Porters Park) beat D. J. Rees (Surbiton) and M. Daragon (Addington Palace), 1 hole.

SECOND SERIES

Padgham and Locke beat Adams and Cox, 4 and 3.

Lacey and King beat Perry and Mitchell, 2 and 1.

Denny and Daragon halved with Rees and Whitcombe.

ANOTHER WOLVES CAPTURE

Wolverhampton Wanderers have secured transfer from Bradford of W. J. Cringan, a 20-year old nephew of W. Cringan, the former Scottish International. Davies has joined the Bradford club in part exchange.

"I'M HENDREN," SAID THE STRANGER

Glasgow, August 4 (By Air Mail).—A stranger watched Ross County cricketers practising at Strathpeffer last night. County's secretary went over and asked if he was interested in cricket.

The stranger smiled, and said, "Well, a little. I'm Pat Hendren." The secretary, taken aback, invited the famous Middlesex and England player over to the nets. Pat readily obliged.

BOXER FAINTS IN TRAIN

EFFECT OF MUSCLE INJURY

London, July 14.

While travelling in the L.M.S. train the Coronation Scot, from Glasgow to London, yesterday, Jackie Hurst, the St. George's featherweight boxer, fainted because of the pain of a torn muscle of the left arm.

The train was near Preston at the time. Hurst was given restoratives, and on his arrival in London received medical attention. He was then sent home to rest.

Hurst suffered the injury during his 10-round fight with the British feather-weight champion, Johnny McGrory, at Glasgow on Tuesday night, when he was beaten on points. He tore the muscle in the second round, but refused to retire, and the fight went the full distance.

HERIOT'S WIN AT GALASHIELS

London, July 30 (by Air Mail).

Heriot's (F.P.) A.C. were easy winners in a triangular contest with Teviotdale Harriers and Gala Harriers in a downpour of rain at the Public Park, Galashiels, last night.

new SHELL MOTOR OIL

THE OLD NAME BUT A NEW OIL

The new Shell Oil is refined in an entirely new plant which is an advance on any other in existence. It combines the two leading qualities sought for in a modern motor oil, clean running and high lubricating properties.

THE NEW PROCESS

The new Shell Oil is the product of an improved solvent-refining process. A unique feature of these oils is the introduction of a very stable oily compound with which the solvent-refined oil is fortified. The great triumph in the invention of this oiliness compound has been the discovery of a means by which the inherent oiliness of mineral oil can be concentrated and stabilised.

WHAT THE NEW OIL GIVES YOU

Instant starting due to its free flowing properties. Freedom from engine drag due both to the "slipperiness" of the oily component and to the free flowing properties of the oil.

Absence of corrosion from combustion products when the engine is cold owing to the strong protective nature of the oil film.

Perfect sealing and lubricating qualities at the highest temperatures.

Great stability against sludge and carbon formation. Economical consumption.

In the following five SHELL grades:

THE BOOMERANG

Ask any good player what action he will take if his right-hand opponent opens with a suit bid and he holds a powerful hand with considerable strength in his opponent's suit. He will promptly answer that he will make a trap pass and wait in ambush. His reasons will be twofold: (1) he may be able to gather in a sizable penalty, and (2) inasmuch as a great part of his strength is concentrated in his opponents' suit, there is little likelihood of his side being able to fulfill a game contract. And now glance at the hand below and determine how you would bid in West's position.

South, Dealer

The bidding:

South West North East
1M Pass 1A Pass
1NT Pass 1B Pass
Pass Pass Redbl Pass

When South opened with a vulnerable one-heart bid, West, looking with relish at his powerful hand, said to himself: "I'll just pass and wait. If North makes any response, I will be able to pick up a nice penalty." North obligingly responded with a spade, and although South's hand was extremely weak, he did his duty by bidding one notrump. West now gleefully doubled and, much to his surprise, North promptly redoubled. When the next two players passed, West found himself in the position of having either to bid a three-card minor suit or let the redouble stand. After some thought he decided to gamble on setting the redoubled contract. However, East's hand was entirely useless, and Declarer had no difficulty in gathering in eight tricks, thus winning the rubber plus 400 points for an overtrick.

West's double of one notrump was of course for business, with this reservation: Whether or not North redoubled, East should have passed if he had any strength; if not, East should have taken out in his best suit even if that suit consisted of four worthless cards. East actually had nothing to offer in defence against notrump, but he did have a five-card club suit and should have rescued. Had he done so the entire disaster would have been avoided.

What's On At the Cinemas

AT THE KING'S — "Love and Hisses."—Musical, packed with novelties, wise-cracks and headline numbers: revealing, too, the biggest surprise of the year with Simone Simon singing the hit songs of the production. A great cast includes Simone Simon, Ben Bernie, Walter Winchell, Bert Lahr, Joan Davis, Dick Baldwin, Raymond Scott Quintette, Peters Sisters and the Cabin Kids.

AT THE MAJESTIC — "The Hurricane."—Mighty drama of primitive people, living and loving in their South Sea paradise until the storm broke and law closed in. From the novel by Nordhoff and Hall, authors of "Mutiny on the Bounty". The cast includes Dorothy Lamour, John Hall, Mary Astor, C. Aubrey Smith, Thomas Mitchell, Raymond Massey, John Carradine and Jerome Cowan.

AT THE STAR — "Murder At The Vanities", with Victor McLaglen, Carl

Brisson, Jackie Oakie and Kitty Carlisle. A sensational musical mystery show with the most beautiful girls in Hollywood.

AT THE ORIENTAL — "Good Earth", with Paul Muni, Luise Rainer and Walter Connolly. Pearl Buck's best selling novel made by M.G.M. into its greatest entertainment.

AT THE QUEEN'S AND ALHAMBRA — "Tropic Holiday". — Dorothy Lamour, Ray Milland, Bob Burns and Martha Raye go through their paces in a light-hearted story, the Mexican touch supplied by an unbeatable collection of native entertainers and a series of sparkling songs. The story concerns a romantic-minded Hollywood writer who goes to Mexico "to get away from it all" and succumbs completely to the charms of the natives, particularly those of one of the señoritas, the exotic Miss Lamour.

AMES CARRIES BAT AGAINST AUSTRALIANS

Yorks And Glamorgan Win County Ties

London, To-day. Two County Cricket Championship encounters concluded yesterday, when Yorkshire beat Leicestershire by an innings and 141 runs and Glamorgan beat Northants by 7 wickets.

The outstanding feature of yesterday's cricket, however, was Leslie Ames' performance for Kent against the Australians, at Canterbury, the England wicket-keeper being undefeated for 108 at the close of play.

The Australians scored 479 in their first knock and then dismissed Kent for 108 to enforce the follow-on, but the County did much better in their second effort at the wicket, and had lost 4 wickets for 265 runs at the close of play, Ames and Woolley (81) being associated in a stand.

SUTCLIFFE'S CENTURY

After Verity had skittled out Leicestershire for 62, Yorkshire went on to score 328 of which Herbert Sutcliffe contributed 105. Then Bowes dismissed Leicester for 125 in their second venture.

MINE EXPLOSION AT CHEMNITZ

Chemnitz, To-day.

A serious accident occurred in the Ehernfriedersdorf mine near Chemnitz yesterday morning when as result of dynamite exploding, the tunnel walls collapsed, 25 miners being trapped.

In the course of feverish activity, 14 had been rescued by late last evening and it is believed that other 11 are still alive. Rescue work is rendered extremely difficult by the slow progress made in pumping off the water. — Trans-Ocean.

J. C. Clay and Emry Davies, the Welsh amateurs, were responsible for the Welsh county's win over Northamptonshire taking 5 for 29 and 5 for 42, respectively.

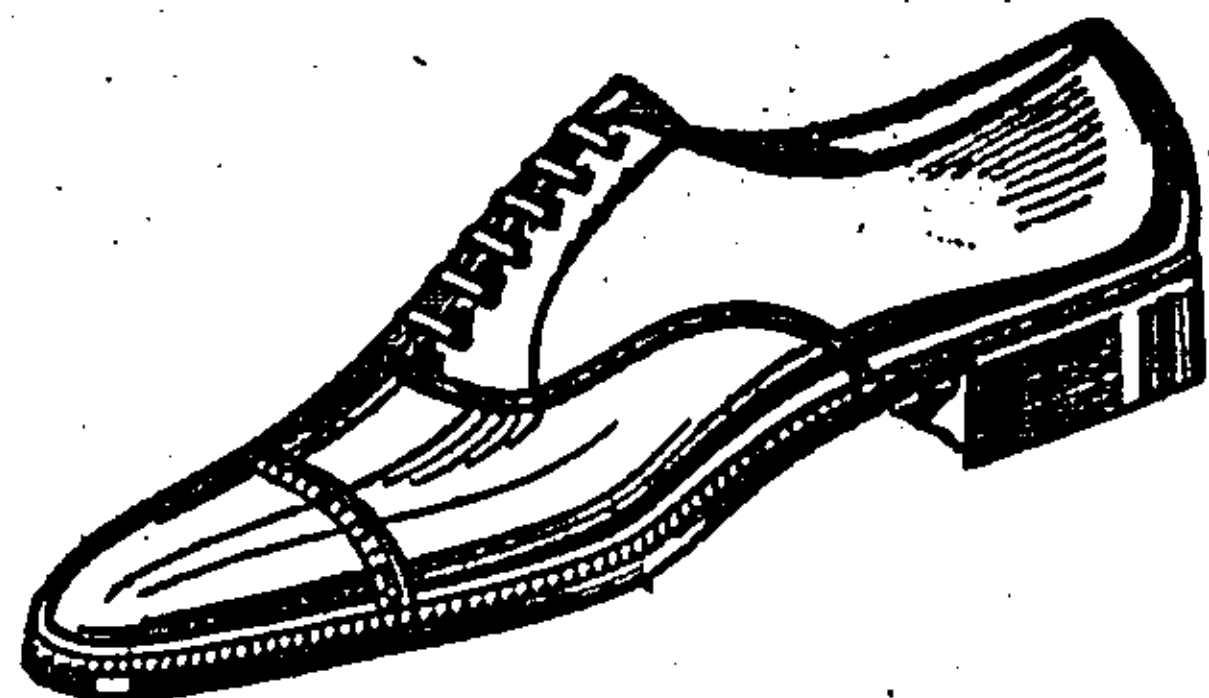

Scores as cabled by Reuter were:—

At Northampton, Glamorgan beat Northamptonshire by 7 wickets. Northants: 66 (J. C. Clay 5 for 29) and 172 (E. Davies 5 for 42). Glamorgan: 129 and 111 for 3.

At Bradford, Yorkshire beat Leicestershire by an innings and 141 runs. Leicester: 62 (Verity 7 for 18) and 125 (Bowes 4 for 30). Yorkshire: 328 (Sutcliffe 105).

At Canterbury (In play). Australians: 479 (White 52, Watt 4 for 102, Todd 4 for 148). Kent: 108 (Waite 4 for 43) and followed on 265 for 4 (Woolley 81, Ames 108 not out).
